University College Absalon offers an international Honours degree as part of the Professional Bachelor's Degree in Teacher Education.

Your opportunities

The degree authorizes you to teach in the Danish primary and lower secondary schools as well as a number of international schools around the world.

Campus Vordingborg

At campus Vordingborg we place a high importance on offering an inspiring student environment with an engaging faculty. Together with 900 fellow students you will have excellent opportunities to develop yourself academically as well as personally.

Vordingborg is a seaside town located on the southeast coast of the island of Zealand (Sjælland). It has a population of roughly 12,000 inhabitants. As a student town it offers numerous possibilities within culture, sport and leisure activities.

The ruins of Vordingborg Castle, are the town's most famous attraction. The only fully remaining part of the castle is Goose Tower (Gåsetårnet), the symbol of the city.

There are 5.67 million citizens in Denmark

90% of Danes own a bike
36% use them every day

Denmark has 7300 kilometers of coastline

Your future and career opportunities

As a teacher you are qualified to teach and work in many educational institutions for example national or international schools, special education schools etc.

You can also continue your studies and specialize by taking a master degree.

During your studies of the International Honours Degree in Teaching at University College Absalon, you are obliged to go abroad either as an exchange student in a study abroad programme or internship.

The Teacher faculty collaborates with a large international network and our International Coordinator is always ready to provide information and assistance to help you plan your potential stay abroad.
